

Viewing Grades and Feedback in Blackboard

Blackboard Learn

Throughout the semester, instructors may provide grade feedback to students through a course's My Grades tool. This tool is located in your course menu.

Check your course's My Grades tool often to monitor your progress in the course. If you find a discrepancy, contact your instructor immediately!

How My Grades Works

The My Grades page displays information about your progress in completing assessments in the course, including grades, due dates, feedback comments, and rubrics. You may sort and organize your grades using the filtering tools at the top of the page.

Non-attempted assessments that are no longer available to students will not appear on this list. If you have questions about missing grades, contact your instructor immediately.

My Grades Icons and Their Meanings

NAME	MEANING
 Needs Grading	Students will see this icon appear next to any assessment that has been submitted to the instructor for grading.
 In Progress	Students will see this icon next to any assessment that has been begun but not submitted for grading. It will appear when an assignment or discussion thread is saved as a draft. It will also appear when a test has been opened and left in progress. If this icon still displays after submitting an assessment for grading, contact your instructor immediately! The presence of the icon may mean that a problem occurred with submitting the assessment.
 Feedback Available	Students will see this icon when the instructor has added some feedback to the grade. Click the icon to view the feedback.
 Exempt	An exempt grade is not included in the overall course grade.
Not attempted/graded	If there is a single dash where a grade would be, it means that the assessment has not been attempted.

Understanding Total and Weighted Total

In My Grades, you may see a row that displays a Total or Weighted Total calculation. These calculations use different formulas to determine a progress or final grade based on settings your instructor controls. Typically, your instructor will choose just one (1) type of calculation to determine progress or final grades and advise you how to interpret the calculation.

My Grades
All Graded Upcoming Submitted
ITEM	LAST ACTIVITY	GRADE
Weighted Total Grading Criteria		100.00%
Total View Description Grading Criteria		305.00 /315

- Total: Uses a simple calculation that sums the total points earned in a class out of points possible.
- Weighted Total: A complex calculation that multiplies grades by weights to give some assessments greater influence in determining a progress or final grade. For example, your instructor may decide that quiz grades will count towards 40% of the final grade. This would mean that each quiz grade is multiplied by a weight that counts towards that 40%.

If you have questions about your course's grade calculations, please refer to your course's syllabus and contact your instructor.

Submission Receipts

When you submit an assignment in Blackboard, a confirmation number will be generated for tracking purposes.

Using the My Grades tool, you may review your submission receipts by clicking on the “Submitted” filter and then clicking the “Submission Receipts” number at the bottom of the page. This tracking information can be useful evidence when troubleshooting a grade discrepancy.

Themes and Motifs in The Black Cat

Besides the narrator's ironic self-contradiction or unwitting irony, Poe's other most pervasive technique in the story is symbolism. Symbols of perception include the narrator's particular mutilation of Pluto, for like his pet, the narrator is half-blind, not only in the past, in the story he relates, but also in the present, when he still cannot understand what it all means. In the past he was half-blinded by drink, and in both the past and present by guilt, rationalizing, or unwillingness to see unpleasant things. For example, though he claims to have been "half stupefied" when he first became aware of the second black cat, only a consuming if

² If you see a blank spot where the Box View preview window is meant to appear, you may need to enable third party cookies in your web browser. This will allow the browser to display a preview of your submitted file.

Viewing Graded Tests

Similar to viewing an assignment grade, when viewing the My Grades tool, click on the name of a graded test to see the test's "View Attempts" page.

On the "View Attempts" page, you will see your attempt history for the test and the score you earned. Click on the score to view your test submission and the answer feedback that the instructor has chosen to display. If you have questions about the scoring or feedback on this page, contact your instructor.
